City Releases 2013 Employee Earnings Report

STAMFORD, CT – The City of Stamford today released the payroll totals for individuals employed by the City during calendar year 2013. Of the top 100 City earners, 80 were public safety employees.

The attached ranking includes three columns: total earnings, extra duty pay, and earnings without extra duty pay. 17% of the total earnings for the top 100 City earners were from extra duty pay, which is not paid directly by City taxpayers.

Martin released the report as part of his plan to promote a more open city government.

“The public has a right to know how their tax dollars are being allocated and we know that year after year residents have an interest in how much the City spends on employee salaries. Providing access to that information is not only a matter of transparency, but of customer service as well,” Martin said.

The Mayor is scheduled to transmit his FY 2014-2015 budget to the Board of Finance and Board of Representatives by March 8.
